Uncle Scott. You were the kindest most warm hearted person. You brought a smile to everyones face. Always so generous and willing to help someone out. You taught me how to tie my sshoes. I can remember sitting in grandma's living room for what seemed like forever. You sat with me the whole time and were so patient. You treated me as if I were your own child. No matter the pain you suffered or the fight you put up you still had a smile. That warm heart continued to beat and fill the families life with joy. You may no longer be present on earth but you are always in our hearts. I remember you told me "I love you, I miss you, I'll always be with you" those words will forever stick. love you, give grandma a kid for us all!

Scott- You were always one of my most favorite people in my life. I always loved you and I am going to miss you so terribly, but I, like the rest of the family, am so happy that you are finally free of pain and able to be at peace. I wish I had been able to tell you so many things, but time always seems to keep us from doing these things. You always made me feel special and knew the right things to say to make me feel better. Though we lost a lot of time together while I was growing up, when you were finally back in our lives it was like time had never passed. I am so thankful that we were able to have you back and spend the last year of your life together. I hope you knew how much we love you and how much every single one of us always thought about and missed you. I am just so sorry that you had to suffer as you did and that we don't have more time. I will always love you, miss you and never forget you. I will keep the promises I made you and make sure my daughters always know about their beautiful Great Uncle Scott. I celebrate you, always. Love you forever, Your Little Tweety Bird, Katie.
