The first time time I ever met Kate was in seventh grade at Washington Junior High School. We were in home economics class where we shared a table with each other and another girl. As always, Kate was very friendly and very talkative which I enjoyed as I was rather intimidated with our first day in junior high school. I know that Kate had a very challenging life but I do hope that she will be able to rest in peace as she crosses the door into heaven's gates as she did have many good qualities about herself in her life.
