Mary Margaret Hawkins was born on February 10, 1934 in Centerville, Iowa, the daughter of William and Lora (Patrick) Hawkins. She graduated from Seymour High School in 1956, where she had been an accomplished basketball player, and Iowa State Teachers College, now known as University of Northern Iowa. She married Raymond Doyne on December 26, 1955 in Davenport, Iowa; he preceded her in death on February 28, 2005.

Mary was a beloved teacher in the Clinton Community Schools, as well as, overseas at the Nagoya International School, Japan and Taipei American School, Taiwan, for over 35 years. Mary dedicated her career to K-3, to ensure that every child who spent time in her classroom would learn to love the process of learning, and develop the skills to carry the student through life.

Mary was an active member of Zion Lutheran Church, as well as, the Clinton Community as a whole. She lived every day to its fullest. Her favorite things included; reading, gardening, going to the movies with friends, and traveling the world with family while dining on fine cuisine, though she never passed up a good hot dog or piece of pizza. Mary loved the companionship of dogs. Later in life when it was too much to care fulltime for one on her own, she was “grandma” to everyone’s, even having the pups stay for sleepovers. Despite the diagnosis of lung disease later in life, she maintained the discipline to remain active, spending a minimum of four days a week, at the Clinton YWCA to stay fit both physically, by joining in exercise classes, and mentally, by participating in a number social activities.

Betty J Buckallew lit a candle in honor of Mary.

Although we lived miles apart we shared so much during our annual "sibling reunions" and our Friday evening telephone visits - our love of reading, gardening and much, much more. With every good book I'll wonder "Has Mary read this?" "Or what has she planted in her flower boxes or planters that I could try?" She was loved by all and will be missed by so many. I feel honored to have been a small part of her life.
